ART. 7 - CHEMICAL AND SENSORY ANALYSIS

The oil samples that participate to the Prize will be submitted to a sensorial analysis (Panel Test) conducted by a qualified and regular Taste Commission – National Jury (Panel), composed by expert tasters with a long experience and of national renown, appointed by the Montiferru Committee, after consultation of the National Jury President. The Montiferru Committee appoints the President, two Vice-presidents of the National Jury, all the recognized Panel Chiefs and the Secretary.

The Committee itself, considering also the reports of the above mentioned Presidents, selects and appoints the Jury members on the basis of attested professionalism and certified experience, as well as the following requirements:

- being on the national list of the experienced tasters, on a regional basis;
- being regularly part of a taste Panel;
- not being Owner, Legal Representative or Delegate of companies producing oils taking part in the competition.

In order to guarantee the regularity of the Prize, the oil samples will be properly made anonymous through a secret procedure, carried out by the General Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Oristano or by an official. The samples will be, then, submitted to sensory analysis conducted by the National Jury.

On the base of a minimum score indicated by the Panel Chiefs, the Committee will define the minimum excellence score (threshold) to identify the oils deserving awards.

This resulting list will be ratified by a chemical-physical analysis conducted by a certified laboratory that will determine the values of acidity, peroxides, UV spectrophotometry, tocopherols, polyphenols in HPLC, according to the following methodologies:

Chemical analysis	Analytical method	Unit of measure
Free fatty acids	Reg. UE 1348/2013 Allegato II	% oleic acid
Peroxide number	Reg. UE 1348/2013 Allegato III	meq O ₂ /kg
UV Spectrometry	Reg. UE 1348/2013 Allegato IX	dimensionless biophenols in HPLC	COI/T.20/Doc. n 29/2009	mg/kg
Tocopherols in HPLC	ISO 9936:2006/Corr. 1:2008	mg/kg

Chemical parameters:

Acidity in oleic acid (% max) 0.3; Peroxide number (meq O₂ max) 10; K232 (max) 2.20; Polyphenols through HPLC method (mg/kg min) 250, Tocopherols (mg/kg min) 160; Other parameters according to law.

For the "Hermanu" Special Prize the biophenols+tocopherols content has to exceed 500 mg/kg.

ART. 8 - ORGANOLEPTIC PARAMETERS

The Panel members will complete an evaluation card considering the intensity of olfactory and retro-olfactory, taste and tactile sensations as well as the overall harmony and cleanness sensations.

The Secretary, assisted by the President, will guarantee all the formal aspects and the operational modalities and, at the end of the sessions, will take the minutes indicating the sensorial analysis results.

The Panel will work behind closed - doors.

In order to preserve the prestige of the Participants, the score for each sample won't be made known.

The Secretary will realize the list, processing the data of the single tasters according to the methods given by the Coordination Committee and under the supervision of the Chief Panel.

The score given by the Jury will be definitive and unappealable.

The card with the graphic results of the oil sample sensory analysis will be reported in the competition Official Catalogue published and distributed by the Committee.

ART. 9 - AWARDS AND WINNERS

The extra virgin olive oils with the best evaluation by the National Jury will be awarded for the following sections:

1. PDO/PGI Section
2. Biological Section
3. Monocultivar Section
4. Pluricultivar Section
5. International Section

The competition prizes will be assigned for each section to the first, second and third place.

SPECIAL AWARDS

6. Olive Press Owners Section not agricultural producers (will be assigned only one price for section 1, 2, 3 and 4)

7. Hermanu - Dedicated to Marco Mugelli, highly esteemed National Jury President departed in 2011, will be assigned only to winning oils and Honour Mentions, only for autumn session and for the national and international oils with the highest antioxidants (biophenols and tocopherols).

8. Best packaging (to be assigned only to winning oils, Honour Mentions Great Mentions): quality and design-labelling balance for marketing.

Among the finalist non-winner oils, the Committee will award, on recommendation of the National Jury, Menzioni d'onore (Honour Mentions) and Gran Menzioni (Great Mentions).

The winners proclamation will be officialised on the occasion of the prize-giving ceremony, the date will be opportunely made known in advance.

The winning companies of the first, second or third place will receive a personalized award.

All the companies producing the final selection oil samples (Winners, Honour and Great Mentions) will be given a participation certificate indicating the prize obtained. All the companies owning the finalist oils can use the obtained prize for promotional purposes. The companies owning the winning oils can put on the packages, respecting the correct information to consumers, the mark given by the Competition Secretariat (2.000 pieces for the first place and 1.000 pieces for the second and third place). The use of awards does not entail any type of obligation or commitment with the exception of the participation conditions according to the Rules of Participation.

SHELF LIFE (preservation of the sensory and chemical characteristics over the time).

The winning oil samples and the ones receiving the Honour Mention in the February session, after a period of about eight months since the first taste, will be submitted to a new sensory analysis carried out by a regular and qualified taste Commission – National Jury (Panel), possibly composed by the same tasters of February Commission, in order to ensure the preservation of the excellence characteristics over the time. For this purpose the Committee will preserve the sealed samples in suitable environment (in the dark and at controlled temperature).

This resulting list from sensory analysis will be subject to ratification, after chemical-physical analysis conducted by a certified laboratory for virgin olive oils, preferably the same one that led the analysis at its February session, in analogy to the methods already described in the article 7.

The chemical parameters, in comparison with the February session, will be modified as follows: Acidity in oleic acid (% max) 0.3; Peroxide number (meq O₂ max) 15; K232 (max) 2.40; Polyphenols through HPLC method (mg/kg min) 200, Tocopherols (mg/kg min) 140. Other parameters according to law. At Committee's discretion, the oils receiving the Great Mention too could be submitted to new analysis. In this case the result can only confirm or not the same award already obtained.

On the basis of the sensory and chemical analysis results, new lists will be drawn up, awarding the winners with new prizes (personalized plaques) and giving the certificates to participants who will receive a Mention (Honour Mention and Great Mention).

ART. 10 - CONTROLS

The Montiferru Committee is allowed to carry out directly or through delegates special administrative controls on the self-certifications and also through a posteriori visits, aiming at ensuring the truthfulness of the winning company statements. If differences are noticed compared to the participation requirements, the Committee will make it known and possible prizes will be revoked.

ART. 11 - PROMOTIONAL ACTIVITIES

In order to encourage the commercial diffusion of oil production, the Montiferru Committee intends to carry out promotional activities both in Italy and abroad, by organizing missions, workshops and participating in national and international events, if this is possible.

N.B. For any disputes related to this Regulation, the Italian version shall prevail
